Making Generational Impact

Each one of us is a product of a family, whether immediate or extended. We acquire many things from our family that have both positive and negative impacts on our lives. In fact, most people wish they had a better family lineage than the one they have. Because the one they have is either engulfed in demonic oppression, poverty, crisis, or misfortune. The mystery of the whole thing is that nobody has the privilege or ability to choose which family to be born into. But I have good news for you.

You may not be able to determine which family to be born into, but you can determine what happens to you and generations after you. Even if you come from a family that is neck-deep in occultism, you can break the link and liberate generations after you. One of the Biblical examples of this order of liberation is Abraham. He was born into a family that worshipped idols, but he met God, and that encounter caused a generational transformation. (Read Genesis 12-18).

The best way to make a generational impact is to raise a family for God. But you cannot raise such a family without a genuine encounter with God. It is the God you know that you can introduce to your descendants. I would like you to surrender your life to God today and let Him build in you the capacity to raise a generation of giants that will make an impact on earth.

Encountering God can have a transformative impact on raising a godly family and generation. It can inspire a deep passion for God and His ways, influencing you to live out your faith authentically. A genuine encounter with God provides guidance and wisdom in raising a godly family through prayer, study of His Word, and listening to His Spirit. Prayer becomes a powerful tool for shaping the spiritual growth and well-being of the family.

When you encounter God, He equips you to teach and disciple your family in His ways, passing on this knowledge and wisdom to the next generation. It also models godly values and character traits in your family life, allowing your children to learn from your example and shape their own understanding of following God. This will also go further to help you establish a culture of faith within the family through intentional practices like regular worship, prayer, Scripture reading, and family devotions. This cultivates a foundation of faith and fosters a generation that seeks after God.

Joshua, the great leader that led Israel to the Promised Land, said, “... as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord” (Joshua 24:15b). You have a duty to God to raise a generation that will serve Him. You are not on earth for yourself; the life you live will have an impact on those coming after you. You may not have the opportunity to know or have the love of a father or mother, but let your children know and receive your love.

Knowing God gives you the potential to impact not only your immediate family but also future generations. The ripple effect of encountering God can extend beyond your household, and your children can pass on the legacy of encountering God to their own families, creating a generational heritage of faith. Knowing God is a lifelong journey that requires consistent pursuit of God's presence, reliance on His grace, and intentional investment in spiritual growth. Through encountering God, we can raise a godly family and influence future generations for His glory.

You can start a family after God by making God your father today. He will change you and give you His wisdom to raise a godly and responsible family.

Go to God in prayer right now and ask Him to forgive you for your past. Ask Him to wash you with the blood of Jesus and give you His Spirit. Ask Him for wisdom, and believe that you have received it. It's a brand new day for you.

To continue in this new life, get a Bible and study it daily. Locate a Bible based church and be involved in fellowship with other saints of God. I will also like you to write or call me, and we will send you our believer's package. God bless you.
